Ceramic glaze is an impervious layer or coating of a vitreous substance which has been fused to a ceramic body through firing. Glaze can serve to color, decorate or waterproof an item. Glazing renders earthenware vessels suitable for holding liquids, sealing the inherent porosity of unglazed biscuit earthenware. It also gives a tougher surface.

Ceramic glaze - Wikipedia
Whiteware refers to ceramic ware that is white, ivory, or light gray in color after firing. Whiteware is further classified as earthenware, stoneware, chinaware, porcelain, and technical ceramics. Earthenware is defined as glazed or unglazed nonvitreous (porous) clay-based ceramic ware.
